Captures Florida By His Personality And His Speech--Royally Received.

TALKS ON THE SOUTHERN QUESTION

The Chief Executive Of The United States Does Not Waste Moments In Cementing His Hold On The South.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MAR.]
JESSUP, Ga., Oct. 21.—The President's special train arrived here at 5:30 this morning, and because of the early hour, the President was not on the platform to greet the crowds who had gathered at the station to see him. The stay was short, and the party continued to Jacksonville, Fla.
No Reception At St. Augustine.
St. Augustine, Fla., Oct. 21.—Although President Roosevelt and the members of his party will receive an enthusiastic greeting when they arrive here tonight, there will be no elaborate entertainments. Tomorrow, being Sunday, the Chief Executive has requested that no program of entertainment be planned for the day. The party leaves here tomorrow night, returning to Jacksonville and going from there to Valdosta, Georgia, over the Georgia Southern, proceeding from Valdosta to Montgomery over the Atlantic Coast Line.
At Jacksonville.
Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 21.—President Roosevelt and party arrived here this morning at 10:30 over the Atlantic Coast line. His stay in Jacksonville will be six hours long, but the joint committee of the Board of Trade and City Council has prepared an elaborate program for the entertainment of Mr. Roosevelt and guests, including a drive to places of interest, a luncheon and public reception. The party leaves at 4:40 this afternoon for St. Augustine, where a stop of twenty-four hours will be made for the purpose of resting.
Had Townheads Of His Own
Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 21.—The President arose about eight o'clock this morning just north of the Georgia-Florida boundary line. At Folkston he left the car a few minutes and shook hands with a little knot of people at the station. Men, women and children—black and white—filed by and each received a greeting. One little white-headed boy was brought shrieking forward. "Well, here is a little townhead," cried the President. "I've got a townhead or two of my own." At the quarantine camp on the line no attempt was made to stop the train. On the way south from Atlanta great crowds gathered at the stations. At one small place about midnight, where the engine was being coaled, two hundred gathered. One old colored woman ran up and down waving her arms. "Where is that President," she cried. "I want to see that President." "Go on to bed," cried the trainmen. "Wake 'em up for me! Wake 'em and I'll die happy," she cried. Reaching Jacksonville the party was met by the governor, mayor, citizens and a committee. An artillery salute, whistles and bells mingled in the greetings. The President spoke to the largest crowd ever gathered in this city.
Roosevelt Arrives
President Roosevelt and his party arrived on time this morning. The demonstration was the largest that has yet greeted him. His speech, which was shorter than he has delivered previously, was listened to with attention by a large audience. He said:
Here in Florida, the first of the Gulf States which I have visited upon this trip, I wish to say, a special word about the Panama Canal. I believe that the canal will be of great benefit to all our people, but most of all to the States of the South Atlantic, the Gulf and the Pacific slope. When completed the canal will stand as a monument to this nation; for it will be the greatest engineering feat ever yet accomplished in the world. It will be a good thing for the world as a whole, and for the people of the isthmus and of the northern portions of South America in particular. Because of our special interest in it, and because of the position we occupy on this hemisphere, it is a matter of special pride to us that our nation, the American nation, should have undertaken the performance of this world duty. A body of the most eminent engineers in the world, both Americans and foreigners, has been summoned, to advise as to the exact type of canal which should be built. At no distant date I hope to be able to announce what their advice is, and also the action taken upon their advice. Meanwhile the work is already sufficiently far to enable me to announce with certainty that it can surely be accomplished, and probably at rather less expense than was anticipated. But upon the last point, as well as upon the question of time, no positive statement can be made until the report of the commission of engineers as to the exact type of canal has been received. The work is as difficult as it is important; and it is of course inevitable that from time to time difficulties will occur and checks be encountered. Whenever such is the case and the men of little faith at home will lose that little faith, and the critics who confound hysteria with emphasis will act after their kind. But our people as a whole possess not only faith, but resolution, and are of too virile fiber to be swept one way or the other by mere sensationalism. No check that may come will be of more than trivial and passing consequence, will inflict any permanent damage, or cause any serious delay. The work can be done, is being done, and will be done. What has already been accomplished is a guaranty as to the future.

When any such work is undertaken there are always many mere adventurers who flock to where it is going on, and many men who think they are adventurers, but who are in reality either weak or timid, follow in their footsteps. Some of the first-class will now and then cause trouble in one way or another. But every care will be taken to detect any misdeed on their part and to punish them as soon as the misdeed is detected. As for the second class they will cause trouble chiefly by losing heart, returning home, or writing home, and raising a cry that they are not happy, and that the conditions of life are not easy, or that the work is not being done as they think it ought to be done. Now these men stand just as stragglers and laggards stand who are ever to be found in the rear of even a victorious army.

The veterans of the civil war who are here present will tell you that the very rear of an army, even when it is victorious, is apt to look and behave as if the victory were defeat. And just the same thing is true in any great enterprise in civil life; there are always weaklings who get trampled down or lose heart, and there are always people who listen to their complaints. They amount to nothing one way or the other, so far as achieving results is concerned, and their complaints and outcries need never detain us.

I call your attention specifically to the matter of health on the isthmus. The climate was supposed to be deadly, and yellow fever, in especial, was supposed to be epidemic. Yet since we have assumed control there has been far less yellow fever than in our own country. The administration is steadily becoming better and more effective, from the hygienic as well as from every other standpoint. The work of building the canal is a great American work, in which the whole American people are interested. It has nothing to do with parties or partisanship, and is being carried on with absolute disregard to all merely political considerations, with regard only to efficiency, honesty and economy.

The digging of the canal, will, of course, greatly increase our interest in the Caribbean Sea. It will be our duty to police the canal, both in the interest of other nations and in our own interest. To do this it is, of course, indispensable to have an efficient Navy (and I am happy to say that we are well on our way toward having one), and also to possess, as we already possess, certain strategic points to control the approach to the canal. In addition it is urgently necessary that the insular and continental countries within or bordering upon the Caribbean Sea should be able to secure fair dealing and orderly liberty within their own borders. I need not say that the United States not only has no purpose of aggression upon any Republic, continental or insular, to the south of us, but has the friendliest feeling toward them, and desires nothing save their progress and prosperity. We do not wish another foot of territory; and I think our conduct toward Cuba is a guaranty that this is our genuine attitude toward all our sister Republics. If ever we should have to interfere in the affairs of any of our neighbors it would only be when we found it impossible longer to refrain from doing so without serious damage following, and even in such case it would only be with the sincere and effective purpose to make our interference beneficial to the peoples concerned. Of course, occupying the position we do, occasions may now and then arise when we can not refrain from such interference, save under penalty of seeing some other strong nation undertake the duty which we neglect; and such neglect would be unfortunate from more than one standpoint. Wherever possible we should gladly give any aid we can to a weaker sister republic which is endeavoring to achieve stability and prosperity. It is an ungenerous thing for us to refuse such aid; and it is foolish not to give it in a way that will make it really effective, and therefore of direct benefit to the people concerned—and of indirect benefit to us, simply because it is a benefit to them.

In the last resort, and only in the last resort, it may occasionally be necessary to interfere by exercising what is virtually an international police power, if only to avoid seeing some European power forced to exercise it. In short, while we must interfere always cautiously, and never wantonly,

FITTING TRIBUTE TO OLD SOLDIER

COL. WATROUS WRITES OF FORMER EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE.

TELLS OF HIS LIFE'S WORK

What He Has Accomplished Against Heavy Odds—Taught Himself After Days' Work.

Lieutenant Colonel J. A. Watrous, U. S. A., who, since his retirement from active service, has taken to writing interesting, chatty letters about Wisconsin men and the part they have played in war and peace, has for his this week's offering to the press of the state a bit of romance that comes directly home to Janesville and to the Gazette in particular. It is not so many years ago that Colonel Nicholas Smith guided the fortunes of this paper. Col. Watrous writes of him and it will interest Colonel Smith's many friends in this city to learn how much he accomplished with such a meagre start.

"What can't a man accomplish if he keeps his eyes open, his mind active, his hands ready and always puts forth his best effort?"

Do you give it up?

Yes? So do I.

Nearly seventy years ago a boy baby flew into the home of a poor family in England. His parents came to Wisconsin and located in southwestern Wisconsin and the father went to work in the lead mines.

When the boy was 12, after he had done a good deal of hard work to aid in supporting the family, and before he had had a chance to spend a day in school, he went to service in the mines with his father, and the better part of the next seventeen years he helped in producing the lead supply, so it will be seen that he was wholly without school privileges.

But that does not mean that he was not a student.

Every noon, while he was in the mines, after his fifteenth birthday, he hurriedly swallowed the cold dinner and gave close attention, first, to learning his letters, then to putting them to use in a speller and later in a reader.

That was all the school the English lad ever attended—his own.

For a time his father operated a threshing machine a few weeks in the autumn; his boy was a helper, at first, but when he was 18 he knew all about and could manage the machine better than his father could, and was given full charge, the father going back to the mine.

While the crew was resting, after dinner, the feeder and manager was attending school—his school—and pored over speller, reader and geography, until it was time to hitch up teams and start in for the last half of the day, which ended when it was too dark to operate.

One season the youngster was making such a good record in threshing grain that the father said to him, "You can go to Milton academy for a term when the season is over." That was what he wished above all things.

The old threshing machine hummed louder and longer than ever, it possible, and when the work was done it was found that the transplanted Johnny Bull had chucked enough bundles of wheat into the singing cylinder to put 40,000 bushels of wheat into bins, and oats bundles enough to make 75,000 bushels.

It was a record-breaker for those early days, and all of the boys in the neighborhood began to take notice of the light-haired lad from Great Britain.

While in the midst of his rejoicing the young man's greatest disappointment came. His father found that he needed all of the money the youngster had earned as a thresher, and could not let him go to Milton academy.

But it did not break his spirit or head off his pursuit of an education.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purposes.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gasses and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from the continued use of them, but one the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

REAL WORK THAT IS BEING DONE AT THE UNIVERSITY PROPER

Everything Is Not Football and Fun in the World of Letters at Madison.

A number of members of the faculty of the Gorman department of the University of Wisconsin including Professors A. R. Hoffeld; Susan A. Stenlid; M. B. Evans and Dr. S. H. Goodnight and F. W. Meisner, have prepared for publication shortly, a book of German student and folk songs, including words and music, entitled "Ein Deutsches Liederbuch für Amerikanische Studenten." Besides accurate revision of the songs, based largely on original text, the book contains notes explanatory of the songs and biographical sketches of the authors and composers.

University Class Officers

The election of officers of the senior class of the University of Wisconsin resulted as follows: president, Arthur O. Kuehnstedt; Appleton; 1st vice-president, Katharine E. George, Monticello, Ia.; 2d vice-president, Newton W. Rosenheim, Kewaukum; secretary, Wilfred C. Parker, Milwaukee; treasurer, Walter H. Sackett, Berlin; class historian, Miss Barbara M. Munson, Viroqua. The juniors after a spirited contest elected the following: president, Reuben F. Arndt, DePere; vice-president, Miss Elvira F. Wallis, Milwaukee; treasurer, Warren A. Gelbach, Lancaster; secretary, Miss Laura B. Elliott, Eau Claire.

Danish Professor Enters University

Dr. G. V. Ellbrecht of Copenhagen, Denmark, who has been appointed government dairy inspector of Denmark, has come to the United States to enter the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, where he will pursue graduate work in dairy bacteriology and other subjects related to dairying. Dr. Ellbrecht has been commissioned by the Danish government to study dairy problems, and conditions before taking up his new work and spent a year and a half in Europe investigating these matters. He will continue these studies during the coming year at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Ellbrecht, as government dairy inspector, succeeds Dr. B. Boggild, the well-known writer and authority on Danish dairying, who has been promoted to the position of professor of dairying at the Royal Veterinary and Agricultural College of Copenhagen.

Investigating Cheese Making

A defective condition in Swiss cheese, causing a loss of several thousand dollars has been investigated by the department of dairy bacteriology of the university and the cause of the trouble together with the remedy form the subject of a recent experiment station bulletin by Professors H. L. Russell and E. G. Hastings of the College of Agriculture. The experiment which they carried on shows that the fermentation in the Swiss cheese with causes it to split open and spoils the cheese, is caused by one of the budding fungi or yeasts, and that the only effective method of coping with the difficulty is to change some of the present methods and to disinfect thoroughly the factory and the utensils in which the milk and cheese are handled.

Nature of the Difficulty

The defective condition of the Swiss cheese does not appear while the milk is being worked upon immediately after it is taken from the press. After a week or more, however, the edge of the cheese begins to crack, and the split continues running around the circumference or across the top of the cheese. This is caused by the pressure of gas within the cheese, the gas being formed by a fermentive process. During the season over two tons of cheese were utterly ruined, while a large portion of another ton was so badly affected that it brought only a very small price. The result was a loss to the one cheese-maker alone of over two thousand dollars.

How to Avoid the Trouble

With fermentation of this character there is always a difference of opinion as to who is responsible for the trouble, as the cheese-maker is apt to blame the farmer for not handling the milk with proper care; and the farmer, on the other hand, usually charges the trouble to the carelessness of the maker and the dirty condition of the factory. This investigation of the experiment station shows that both may be responsible, as the yeast organism may get into the milk either before or after it is brought to the cheese factory. The custom of placing whey in individual barrels for the farmers to remove and carry back to the farm is the cause of much of the trouble with which the Swiss cheese industry has to contend. This whey, taken back to the farms in the same set of cans that are used to bring the fresh milk, may readily infect the sweet milk unless the cans are carefully disinfected. A safer method is to use other receptacles, such as old discarded milk cans, for carrying the whey back to the farms, and to keep the milk cans for milk alone.

Factories Should Be Disinfected

As the yeast organism may live in a dried condition on the walls or floors of a factory, for this purpose heat is the most effective agent; and it is sufficient to destroy the organism's vitality. For washing the walls and floors of the factory a two per cent solution of hot lye was found to be very satisfactory. The holding of the whey until it sours so as to allow the butter-fat to be skimmed off, together with the soaking of the rennets in the whey and the use of this rennet solution for curdling the milk, are two other methods generally in vogue in Swiss cheese factories that favor the development of these obnoxious organisms. By preventive measures, the investigations show, the difficulty can be overcome.

ANNIVERSARY OF GRAND ARMY POST

Was Observed in a Fitting Manner Last Evening—Address Delivered by Capt. Pliny Norcross.

W. H. Sargent Post No. 30, Grand Army of the Republic, observed the twenty-fourth anniversary of its organization with appropriate ceremonies last evening. J. L. Bear presided and Former State Department Commander Pliny Norcross delivered the address of the evening, speaking for over an hour of the history of the G. A. R. and the Women's Relief Corps and his own personal experiences at the encampments held at Denver and Boston. Major S. C. Cobb told the story of W. H. Sargent Post, passing over a review of its eventful history life for two decades. Both the local Grand Army post and the Women's Relief Corps have 102 members in good standing. Miss Shoemaker delivered two very pleasing recitations, the title of one of them being "The Sinking of the Albatross." Miss Winbiger rendered two solos which were very well received and Col. E. O. Kimberley led the singing of "Marching Through Georgia" and "America," which closed the program. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a delightful time.

If you enjoy delicious, creamy brown puddings, try Mrs. Austin's.

"THE OLD SCRATCH"

How the Evil One Came to be Popularly Known as "The Old Scratch."

One of the many familiar names of the satanic majesty is "The Old Scratch." It is undoubtedly due to the fact that scratching is so disagreeable that people thought it no worse than the evil one. A scalp full of dandruff keeps one scratching all the time, not only disagreeable but considered very inelegant in polite society—as it should be—because one ought to keep the scalp so clean that it would not itch. To cure the scalp of dandruff effectively, use Newbro's Herculide. It kills the germ that creates the dandruff, which is preliminary to falling hair, and, finally, baldness. No other hair preparation kills the dandruff germ. Herculide also is a very delightful and effective hair-dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herculide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NATIVES DRANK; FIRE RESULTED

MARY HUMPHREY TELLS OF EXCITEMENT IN COLON, C. Z.

ONE MAN BURNED TO A CRISP

Conflagration Assisted Health Authorities in Cleaning Out Fever Infected District.

Colon, C. Z., Sept. 28, 1905.

Colon has had its first real excitement since I came here. At nine-thirty on Tuesday evening last, all the whistles and bells in the town announced to the inhabitants that a fire was in progress. Soon the heavens were illuminated with the blaze, and excitement was at fever heat. The fire was started in a shop on Bottle Alley. The occupants had been drinking heavily of Jamaica rum and in some way overturned the lamp. The shop being filled with inflammable stuff, it was ablaze in a moment's time. There being no fire protection of any kind in the city, nothing could from being completed as yet. Two men have been "ripping" boards for the past week just outside my office window. They sit astride the board and work the saw from them instead of toward them. They take three or four strokes with the saw, then they rest for five or ten minutes and visit, then will follow a few more strokes and some more resting and visiting, with the final result of only a few boards being ripped off in a day. A white carpenter told me he made a test of their method of ripping boards as compared with his, whereupon he challenged one of them to a ripping match, with the result of his having ripped three to the colored man's one in the same time, and both working at their best. This morning a force of five white carpenters were put on the job, so perhaps the operating room will be finished in the near future. Today one of the orderlies asked me for a "cotton reel." That was a new expression to me and puzzled me for some time, but I finally made out that he wanted a spool of thread. Their expressions are unique and many times highly amusing.

Yesterday I asked an orderly to give a patient some bread and milk for a diet, and he asked if he should give him the "skin" of the bread.

Another orderly informs me regularly that the floors are properly "broomed" and when the floors are to be cleaned, that he has "swabbed" the floor. A mop is always called a "swab" by them.

In the colored wards the convalescent patients are required to do such work as they are physically and mentally able to perform. One of them was delegated to tend a fire which is kept burning during the day to heat water for hospital purposes. He soon returned to the ward after being set at his job and reported to me that he couldn't do that work because the fire made him all "inflamed" inside. It required the united efforts of the doctors and myself to convince him that the fire would not harm him and that he must keep it burning.

When any of the supplies in a ward are exhausted their expression for it is: "It is finished mum." Although the Jamaicans are trying in many ways they are also amusing and interesting as character studies.

IT IS

AS EASILY REGULATED AS A LAMP—every door, draft and joint on the famous genuine ROUND OAK Heating Stove fits. Pains-taking workmanship, right principle of construction, with the best material money will buy, are the reasons why this famous stove holds the fire, saves the fuel and satisfies the purchaser.

You take no chances when you decide on a ROUND OAK, no matter what kind of fuel you wish to burn—hard coal (with or without magazine), soft coal, coke or wood.

With the hot blast (used only for soft coal), a steady even fire is secured which consumes the spot and gases; the double fire pot with cone-center grate with rim discharge, prevents the formation of clinkers.

Think what a satisfaction that is—just shaking the grate cleans the entire bottom of the fire alike.

There is no other stove like it—others are made to look like it, but there the resemblance stops.

Look for the name on the leg, then you will know it is the original, genuine ROUND OAK.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, October 21, 1865.—Going South.—A large flock of wild geese passed over this noon for the Sunny South. They made as much noise as a parcel of street politicians discussing the candidates' chances for the Assembly.

Strawberries.—Mr. Frank Gray has laid upon our table some ripe strawberries just picked from his garden in the Fourth Ward. Nature has certainly done her best this season in the line of vegetables.

Rev. Mr. Anderson has shown us a sprig of a raspberry bush from his garden on Bluff street, on which are to be found buds, blossoms, green and ripe fruit, together as if time's calendar marked July instead of October.

The Miltonian Tableaux.—Lappin's Hall was well filled with a delighted audience last evening, on the occasion of the opening of the great Miltonian tableaux. It is a fine thing and will attract great numbers to witness it during its stay here.

Our Devil (We keep one you know) wants to know if the views of Pandemonium, now on exhibition at Lappin's Hall were "taken on the spot." Unless that young man reforms he will see the time when he will be able to judge of their accuracy.

Personal.—Hon. T. O. Howe looked in upon us this afternoon. He spoke in Beloit last night and speaks in Monroe this evening. The Judge brings glad tidings, politically, from all parts of the State in which he has been.

..COMING ATTRACTIONS..

OF THE "LITTLE JOHNNY JONES" COMPANY; HERE WEDNESDAY

Only the largest cities in America had an opportunity last season of witnessing "Little Johnny Jones," George M. Cohan's very successful musical melodrama. That the play will be presented in this city at the Myers Grand Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, has interested our theatre-goers to such an extent that the demand for seats has been unusually large. "Little Johnny Jones" is produced as one of the most pretentious musical productions of the past dozen years and one of the most beautiful from a scenic standpoint on tour this season. It is in three acts and four scenes and will be presented here with the same massive and realistic scenery as seen for twenty-two weeks in New York last season and over three months in Chicago. The cast is a notable one, while the company numbers, with principals and chorus, over sixty people.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.
A certain man carried a sack containing a heavy burden, and he had borne it many weary days.

Then, as he journeyed, the Angel of Knowledge came to him and spoke to him, saying:

"What dost thou carry?"

And the man replied: "It is a heavy, heavy burden."

"Of what does the burden consist?" the angel asked.

"Of my worries," the man made answer.

Then the angel smiled pityingly upon the man and said:

"Let us look into the bundle of thy worries."

And they looked, and lo! even as they looked the contents of the sack dwindled into nothingness.

For when the Angel of Knowledge teaches a man to look aright he perceives that his worries are but tiny and useless things and the burden of them grows inconceivably light.

The San Francisco Call published this little parable, and there are so many people carrying sacks of worries, that it is well worth reproducing.

The notion is quite popular that many people die prematurely on account of over-work, and this is doubtless true, for the pace is so rapid that endurance is frequently taxed to the limit, yet the fact remains that worry kills more people than hard work.

The disposition to worry is sometimes inherited, but more often acquired by persistent practice until it becomes a fixed habit.

It is said that worry was the cause of more yellow fever in New Orleans than mosquitos, and that while the authorities experienced but little difficulty in screening the open cisterns that it was impossible to hold down the lid on the receptacles of worry.

An oculist said to a patient, as he noticed the evidences of anxiety on his face: "Whatever you do, don't worry. You can go blind in a month without effort if you want to."

This is true concerning any disease. Think about it persistently until imagination takes hold, and the disease follows as the natural sequence.

An old physician recently said: "I have been a long time in learning a few simple lessons. When I graduated, I was full of theories, and with a thorough knowledge of disease as well as of material medica I sacrificed personality, entered the sick room with serious face and dignified demeanor, ready to grapple in a scientific way, with any ailment which might be presented."

"The matter of healing the sick was a serious problem, and every home that I visited was impressed with the seriousness of my mission. I failed to recognize the look of anxiety and tone of solicitude, and frequently failed in results."

"But the truth dawned upon me one day, that the doctor at his best should be more than a pill box and an advisory board, and so I left my dignity with my hat in the hall and with a hearty good morning and encouraging smile, greeted my next patient."

"A simple remedy and hopeful suggestion acted like magic, and whatever has come to me in the way of success is largely due to the tonic of a cheerful personality in the sick room."

The experience of the old doctor is the common experience of every intelligent physician, and the man who sacrifices personality to dignity, or an inflated opinion of his high calling, has mistaken his mission.

The bodily ills of life which cause the most worry, are largely imaginary.

The chronic invalid is usually a patient sufferer, but the men and women who know just enough about anatomy to think they know it all, and whose nerves are on edge from daylight until dark, are frequently victims to all sorts of ailments.

Christian science comes to this class of people as the greatest panacea of the age, and while the theology of this new faith is the subject of much discussion in church circles, the fact remains that the common sense method of controlling the nerves and restoring health by the power of suggestion, is endorsed today by a large and intelligent following.

The field of worry is a large and inviting field, and many good people spend so much time in this fascinating domain, that they not only "enjoy poor health" but many other things equally disagreeable.

The time was, and not so long ago when the boy was expected to adopt his father's political creed, and his mother's religious faith, and the old people had but little occasion to worry along either line, but things have changed, and the new generation is not satisfied with inherited faith.

The republican party is the only political party that has stood the test of time, but the most ardent supporters of this party recognize the fact that evolution is now going on in the ranks, with more or less uncertainty, as to results.

The political reformers of the day are largely from the ranks of the republican party, and while they are freely criticized and denounced, and the rank and file are consumed with worry, yet the fact remains that these men have a following and the disposition is growing to break away from all creeds and landmarks of the fathers.

What is true in the world of politics, is more largely true in the realm of theology, and church people are constantly worrying about the inroads made by the new creeds.

The Catholic, Lutheran and Episcopal churches, through their systems of schools and confirmation are able to hold many of their children to the mother church, but not so with other denominations.

There is a growing disposition on the part of many people, to do their own thinking on questions of theology, and more than the word of the preacher is necessary to confirm conviction.

This class of independent thinkers are found both in and out of the church, and in answer to their demand new creeds have come into existence. Some of these creeds are fantastic and more or less tinged with fanaticism, but this is not surprising.

The religious fanatic is as old as the race. He has always been a part of the church life, and flourishes today in the best established churches. His misdirected zeal, prompted by a superstitious conscience is not a crime, and while he may be a source of annoyance, there is no occasion to worry about his future.

The followers of Dowie, and the disciples of the faith cure doctrine, belong to the class of people whose emotional nature controls action.

The Christian Science church, which is rapidly coming to the front, appeals to intelligence, and its membership, like the membership of the other two, is largely recruited from the ranks of protestant churches.

The time spent in worrying about these new creeds, is worse than wasted. If the church is unable to withstand the onslaught of liberal thought, there is something the matter with the church.

The day has gone by when people can be either frightened or cajoled into the church, and thanks to a better intelligence, the day is also passing when so much concern is felt for the next life, as to sacrifice all responsibility here, in preparing for the hereafter.

The heathen Chinese may not know much about the Christian religion, but he knows a good deal about the injustice of Christian civilization, and he is worried about that, as he has occasion to be, much more than he is worried about his future.

The day to work is every man's heritage, and when his work is faithfully performed, and justice to both God and man is recognized, the worry sack will be empty and not burdensome.

WOULD DENY IRVING A PLACE IN ABBEY

British Weeklies Believe Irving Not Great Enough to Repose Alongside of Shakspere.

London, Oct. 21.—Many of the weekly publications, including the Spectator, the Saturday Review and the Outlook, have articles expressing regret that the dean of Westminster should have sanctioned the interment in Westminster abbey of the ashes of Sir Henry Irving and denying to Irving greatness as an actor in the sense that Garrick was great.

They argue that space in the abbey has become so limited that none but the nation's greatest should be interred there, and that it is impossible to regard Irving in that category.

Beside the other great actor, Garrick, and under the shadow of the statue of Shakespeare, as the interpreter of whose plays he won fame, the ashes of Sir Henry Irving have been given burial in Westminster abbey.

The services, which were of an impressive character, were conducted in the presence of a congregation which included many from the highest official life of England, eminent representatives of all the walks of life, and all the representatives of that gallery to which Irving was so invariably attentive, who could find standing room in the abbey.

King Edward was represented by Gen. Sir Dighton Probyn, and the prince of Wales was represented by Lieut. Col. William H. P. Carrington, while the cabinet ministers and ambassadors attended in person. Wanted a New Thrill.

A young man recently presented himself to have an offending tooth out and Dr. Richards expostulated with him for being so unwise as to have it removed, when it might be saved with a little effort on the part of a dentist.

He insisted, however, and after it was out he confessed that he had never had a tooth extracted before and that he thought it was as easy a job as people said it was, he wanted to try it once to see how it felt.

Now, while Dr. Richards don't advise people to do like this young man, yet it is gratifying to him to see to what degree of conviction the community has advanced as to thorough belief in his ability to actually do dental work without hurting folks.

FOOTBALL GAMES
TALK OF THE DAY

BIG GAMES ALL OVER THE COUNTRY START TODAY.

MUCH INTEREST IN MADISON

Several Hundred Go from Janesville to Attend the Game There Today.

Madison is the scene of the stellar football game of the west today. Several hundred enthusiastic rooters from Janesville joined the throngs that went from Chicago to witness the first real football fight of the year. Starting with the six o'clock train, the train from there until noon took the Chicago of Janesville enthusiasts. Chicago sent up some fourteen hundred strong along to root for the "Midway." Among them, however, was a fair sprinkling of cardinal ribbons, showing that many of the "old grads" and former students were coming back to help root once more.

Gaily Decorated
The Chicago trains were gaily decorated. Bunting hung from the car windows and the Chicago yell could be heard for blocks as the train drew in. The coaches, team and special, with some of the professors, left Chicago at eight o'clock this morning and arrived in Madison about noon, passing through here shortly before eleven. Fifteen minutes later the students' special left Chicago and they passed through the city shortly after the first special. Many of the Janesville enthusiasts boarded the Chicago train to talk bets and prospects and found lots of Chicago money to be had that "Bekie" winds his long legs for one or two goal-kicks. The bright, crisp day is argued to be just "Chicago weather." There was a goodly number of fair Coeds from the Midway school on board the train and they were as enthusiastic as the men.

Among the other games to be played today are: Northwestern and Kentucky at Evanston, Michigan and Nebraska at Ann Arbor, Illinois and Purdue at Urbana, Minnesota and Iowa at Minneapolis, Notre Dame and Washington at Notre Dame, Yale and Penn State at West Point, Pennsylvania and Brown at Philadelphia, Princeton and Lafayette at Princeton, Columbia and Amherst at New York, Williams and Dartmouth at Hanover, Carleton and Dickinson at Carleton, Cornell and Western Pennsylvania at Ithaca, Colgate and Syracuse at Syracuse, Annapolis and North Carolina at Annapolis, Trinity and Union at Hartford, Virginia and Bucknell at Norfolk.

Hundreds From Janesville.
Among the Janesville people who went to Madison for the game were: M. E. Osburn, Frank Jackson, George McKee, Bernard Palmer, Walter Carle, E. E. Tuttle, H. C. The annual fall exhibition given under the auspices of the Janesville Art League will open with a reception at Eldred hall one week from next Wednesday evening and will continue through the balance of the week. The Thurner collection which is to be brought here again will include a $45,000 Israel, one of the two costly paintings brought from Europe, by the Chicago collectors this season. The exhibitions are given to further the work of establishing a permanent gallery in Janesville, the proceeds being devoted to that purpose. On the Friday of the week following the exhibition it is expected that Prof. Theodore Lyman Wright of Beloit College will give the first of this season's series of lectures. On Monday November 6, Mrs. Foote of Des Moines, Ia., will give a lecture on "The Art of Good Dressing," with particular reference to the economical and artistic phrases of the subject.

Dr. Charles Bliss, formerly of Janesville and a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bliss of this city, is to be married at seven o'clock this evening to Miss Laura Hampson, in the city of Brooklyn, New York. The groom-to-be has built up a lucrative practice in Elizabeth, New Jersey, the future home of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bliss left for Brooklyn several days ago and will be present at the ceremony tonight. They carried with them for their son and his bride the congratulations and best wishes of scores of Janesville friends.

One week from next Tuesday occurs the annual vigil of Halloween or All Saints' Day, a night devoted in modern times to the mysteries, the consultation of strange auguries, the resurrection of rather material spirits, and other interesting ceremonies. Plans are already being made for numerous social affairs on that occasion. Miss Grace Valentine is one who will entertain, and the affair is announced as a very informal "ghost party."

Those present are the Misses Eleanor Bright, Halcyn Cross, Eloise Efield, Wilma Jones, Margaret Bostwick, Mae Huntress, Maude Schnell, Florence Spooner, Maude Sherman, Hazel Welch, Louise McGowan, and Maude Rose.

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Welch of 552 Pleasant street, Miss Irene Welch was the hostess of the A. I. E. club. Games and refreshments were indulged in. Among those present were Emma Gehrl, Wilma Baines, Hazel Powers, Marjory Bennett, Serena Nassett, Nellie Maker, Alice Harvey, Mary Whalen, Emily Hill, Harriet Mulligan and Irene Welch.

The members of the Forum literary society of the high school last evening enjoyed a carnival ride. They made the trip to Afton and spent some time about the city. Fruit and other refreshments were dealt with justly and the evening spent pleasantly. Mr. Snively, assistant critic of the society, accompanied the young men.

Preparations are nearly completed for the banquet at the Hotel Myers to be tendered Gen. George M. Randall by a number of his old friends and relatives here on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 25. The affair will not be a large one. Plates will be laid for from thirty-five to fifty guests.

WAS ELEVEN WEEKS
IN HOSPITAL HERE

Mrs. Elizabeth Clothier of Fort Atkinson Confined Long Time with Broken Limb.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clothier was removed from the Palmer Memorial hospital here today and taken to her home in Fort Atkinson on the eleven-forty-five train over the North-Western road. She has been confined for the past eleven weeks as the result of a broken limb. The accident happened on Sunday, July 29, near her home. She stepped to the corner to mail a letter for a neighbor and fell on a defective sidewalk. The bone of her leg was broken and she received a severe nervous shock. Mrs. Clothier is an elderly lady and her age had much to do with the delay in recovery.

Mrs. Olivia A. White, who has been in the hospital for nearly nine weeks with a broken leg, was taken to her home at 229 South Main street Thursday, having sufficiently recovered to be able to walk with assistance.

FRESHMEN HELD TO
A 32 TO 0 SCORE

By Janesville High School Football Team at Madison This Morning.

Hoping only to make a creditable showing and without a glimmer of a chance for victory, the Janesville High school football team departed at 6:05 this morning to meet the Varsity Freshmen football team on the gridiron. The call came for them at a late hour, after Eau Claire, which was booked for the contest, had failed the class team, and the local boys went forth to offer themselves as a sacrifice to the ideal of "gamefulness" and the great game itself. Coach Haumerson looked for a score of 50 to 0. Just after one o'clock this afternoon the following dispatch was received from the Gazette's correspondent:

Madison, Wis., Oct. 21.
To the Gazette:
The Janesville High school put up a great game this morning against the strong Varsity Freshmen, holding the big fellows down to a final score of 32 to 0.

DOCTORS WONDER

At New Medical Discovery That Effects Marvelous Cures After Skilled Physicians Fail.

A remarkable experience with a newly discovered medicine is related by Mrs. Fritz Bretschneider, of 739 Second St., Milwaukee, Wis. In a recent letter Mrs. Bretschneider declares that for six months her husband suffered terribly from rheumatism, and that he could not sleep, so great was his pain. After being treated by several physicians without any relief whatever, and trying every remedy they had heard of in a vain effort to remove the cause of his suffering, some one told her of the marvelous cures that were being effected with the use of the New Discovery medicine.

Mrs. Bretschneider purchased several bottles of the new medicine and her husband began their use. The remarkable result is best told in the lady's own words as she wrote it: "The effect of the remedy was immediate. The swelling disappeared and his awful pain was relieved with the first few doses. Now my husband sleeps well and awakes refreshed. His appetite is good and he is stronger and better in every way. It was a most miraculous cure."

The new medicines are known as Cooper's New Discovery and Cooper's Quick Relief, the assistant remedy, which is used in connection with the New Discovery, and are sold for one dollar per bottle and fifty cents per bottle respectively.

The remedies cure Rheumatism, Catarrh, Stomach Trouble, Kidney Trouble, Blood Diseases, Deafness and Paralysis, and are sold in this city only by Mr. Cooper's special agents, E. B. HEIMSTREET, Janesville, Wis.

Mother's Retain Your Youthful Figures.

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from time immemorial society has recognized what they thought to be a detriment in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marbling of physical beauty of figure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbirth is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human form than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

Is essential in the proper management of every case of labor; it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from this very fact it facilitates their return to normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very cause.
It is a liniment; it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results, it is Mother's Friend, $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of priceless value sent free to all women.

Judith of the Plains

By MARIE MANNING,
Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1905, by Harper & Brothers

"Ain't there a love letter for me?" The young man who inquired seemed to belong to a different race from these bronzed squire of the saddle. He suggested over-crowded excursion boats on Sunday afternoons in swarming eastern cities. He buttonholed every one and explained his presence in the west on the score of his health, his though leaving his native asphalt were a thing that demanded apology.

"Yes," answered the postmistress, with a real motherly note, "here is one from Hugs and Co."

A roar went up at this and the blush-

"Get him out of the state, Judy."

ing tenderfoot pocketed his third bill for the most theatrical style of Mexican sombrero; it had a brass snake coiled round the crown for a hatband, and a cow puncher in good and regular standing would have preferred going bareheaded to wearing it.

"She seems to be pressing her suit, son. You better name the day," one of the loungers suggested.

"The blamed thing ain't worth $25," the young man from the east declared. A conspicuous silence followed. It seemed to irritate the owner of the hat that no one would defend it. "It ain't worth it," he repeated.

"I think you allowed you was out here for your health?" a big Texan inquired.

"Betcher life," swaggered the man with the hat, "N'York's good enough for me."

"But"—and the Texan smiled sweetly—"the man who sold you the hat ain't out here for his."

Judith hid her head and stamped her feet. The boys were suspiciously quiet, then, some one began to sing.

The postmistress waited for the last note of the chorus to die away, and read from a package she held in her hand. "Mrs. Henry Lee, Deer Lodge, Wyoming."

"Well, Henry, here's a wedding present, I guess. And my congratulations, though you've hardly treated us well in never saying a word."

The unfortunate Henry, who hadn't even a sweetheart and who was noted as the shiest man in the "Goose Creek outfit," had to submit to the mock congratulations of every man in the room and promise to set up the drink later.

"I never felt we'd keep you long, son. Them golden curls seldom gets a chance to ripen singly."

"Shoshone squaw, did you say she was, Henry? They ain't much for looks, but there's a heap of wear to 'em."

"Oh, go on, now; you fellows know I ain't married." And the boy handled the package with a sort of dumb wonder, as if the superscription were indisputable evidence of a wife's existence.

"Open it, Henry. You shore don't harbor sentiments of curiosity regarding the postoffice dealings of your lady."

"Now, old man, this here may be grounds for divorce."

"See what the other fellows sending your wife."

Henry, badgered, jostled, the target of many a homely witticism, finally opened the package, which proved to be a simple bottle of baby food. At sight of it they howled like Apaches, and Henry was forced to receive their congratulations. Judith, who had been an interested onlooker without joining in the merriment, now detected in the tenor of their humor a tendency toward breadth. In an instant her manner was changed. Rapping the table with her mailing stamp, she announced:

"Boys, this postoffice closes in ten minutes, if you want to buy any stamps."

The silence following this statement on the part of the postmistress was instantaneous. Henry took his mirth provoking package and went his way. Some of the more hilariously inclined followed him. The remainder confined themselves absolutely to business, scribbling postal cards or reading their mail. The pounce of the official stamp on the letters as the postmistress checked them off for the mail bag was the only sound in the hot stillness.

A heavily built man, older than those who had been keeping the postoffice freely, now, took advantage of the lull to approach Judith. He had a twinkling face, all circles and pouches, but it grew graver as he spoke to the postmistress. He was Major Atkins, formerly cavalry officer, but since his retirement a cattleman, whose herds grazed to the Panhandle of Texas. As he took his mail, talking meantime of politics, of the heat, of the lack of water, in the loud voice for which he was famous, he managed, with clumsy diplomacy, to interject a word or two for her own ear alone.

"Jim's out," he conveyed to her in a successfully muffled voice. "He's out, and they're after him, hot. Get him out of the state, Judy—get him out, quick. He tried to kill Simpson at Mrs. Clark's in town yesterday. The little eastern girl that's here will tell you. Then the major was gone before Judith could perfectly realize the significance of what he had told her.

She threw back her head, and the pulse in her throat beat. Like a wild forest thing at the first warning sound she considered: "Was it time for flight, or was the warning but the crackling of a twig? Major Atkins was a cattleman. Her brother hated all cattlemen. How disinterested had been the major's warning? He had always been her friend. Mrs. Atkins had been one of the ladies at the post who had helped to send her to school to the nuns at Santa Fe. She despised herself for doubting, yet these were troublous times, and all was fair between sheep and cattle men. Major Atkins had spoken of the eastern girl. Then that pretty little curly haired creature, whom Judith had found standing in the sunshine, had seen Jim—had heard him threaten to kill. Should she ask her about it—confront her? Judith's training was not one to impel her to give her confidence to strangers. Still she had liked the little eastern girl.

In a few minutes more the group in the postoffice began to disperse under the skillful manipulation of the postmistress. To some she sold stamps with an air of "God-speed you," and they were soon but dwindling specks on the horizon. To others she implied such friendly farewells that there was nothing to do but betake themselves to their saddles. Others had compromised with the saloon opposite, and their roaring mirth came in snatches of song and shouts of laughter. She fastened up the little pile of letters that had remained uncalled for with what seemed a deliberate slowness. Each time any one entered the room she looked up. Then the hope died hard in her face. Leander came in with cattle trend and removed the pigeonholes from the table. The postoffice was closed. Family life had been resumed at the Daxess.

Pain in the Head

Is a danger signal, warning you that the brain nerves are exhausted—irritated, and are undergoing an unnatural strain.

Frequent and prolonged attacks of pain weaken the generative power of the nerve cells of the brain, and lead to loss of memory, melancholy, spasms, epilepsy, and frequently insanity.

When the brain nerves are weakened they are unable to supply sufficient nerve force to the nerves that control the lungs, heart, stomach and other organs, and these organs are thus robbed of energy, and unable to meet the demands upon them, and they get sick.

Stop the head pains with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the influence upon your general health will be greater than you can realize.

"I want to tell you how thankful I am for Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. From a child I have been subject to sick headache, and never found any lasting relief until I received a sample of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills while in Geneva, six years ago. By taking one it usually throws off my pain, so I can go about my home duties."

MRS. ALMA GATES, R. F. D. No. 4, Geneva, Ohio.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money.

25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

GOOD THINGS TO TIE TO.

Right now thousands of women are thinking of Winter Cloaks and Furs, or a new Fall Suit. One can save much time and worry by visiting this store if interested in Cloaks, Suits or Furs. Five minutes in our Ready-to-wear Garment Department will convince any fair-minded woman that the most important stock in Rock County can be found at The Big Store. Boasting counts for little. Women are too wise to be easily fooled by big claims without something substantial back of them. There is a satisfaction in having such very large assortments to select from. Big selling, quick action, enables us to be constantly receiving the latest styles, the correct things in man-tailored Suits and Cloaks.

Misses' and Children's Cloaks—One of the hardest problems we have to deal with is to find desirable, well made, pleasing cloaks for misses and children and not too high priced. Our styles this season are exceptionally good, just enough dash to them, a smartness that appeals to the younger members;

FURS—It is no easy task to get furs that come up to our standard. Plenty of trashy skins in the market—look well for a time, soon go to pieces. Some women buy the poor kind, pay a little less than they would for good furs, but have to buy twice. Other women look ahead, buy our kind, get satisfactory wear, and save money.

Carpets and Rugs

The carpet department is a busy place. It draws customers from all over Southern Wisconsin. No half-way business about our stock; it's a wonder. Hundreds of rolls of Ingrains, Body Brussels, Velvets, Axminsters, Tapestry; also hemp, straw, cotton warp, rex and Hodge fibre matting, and the Ingrains in cotton and wool mixed, rag carpets, etc.

RUGS—The big sellers are the room sizes, of which we show about 175 from $12.00 to $35.00. Oriental Rugs, $5.00 to $90.00; a great saving by buying them here.

American made rugs, probably 800 of them, starting with Smyrnas at 85c. Before furnishing the new house a look here will be beneficial. We have the floor coverings to show, bought from foremost manufacturers in this country. It costs nothing to look.
